Example of successful project

Branislav Crveni (38), from Turija near Srbobran, after finishing high school, decided to follow in his father's footsteps and be engaged in agriculture. He plants wheat, corn, and mercantile soya bean on approx. 60 hectares of fertile land in Vojvodina. In addition to cooperation with the well-known Institute of Field and Vegetable Crops Novi Sad, Branislav needed new machinery to achieve record yields, for which his family has been known for many years.

According to his words, reducing inputs and reaching yields on the level of European farmer is achieved by careful planning of each step in production. The most crucial stage and prerequisite for a successful yield is sowing. The same strategy Branislav has used to purchase of machinery – carefully, step by step, in accordance with the possibilities and available types of support.

Branislav participated in the First Public Call for the procurement of new machinery and equipment. He is one of the first paid IPARD recipients in Serbia. He modernized his mechanization with a tractor connected mineral fertilizer spreader and navigation for agricultural mechanization, for which he received EUR 21,410 of IPARD support.

Branislav has participated also in the Fifth Public Call within Measure 1, for the procurement of a tractor mounted sprayer. The realization of this investment was not easy, given that the COVID pandemic introduced new challenges in many sectors, including the sector for production and distribution of agricultural equipment and machinery. After the deadline for realization of the investment was extended, Branislav has obtained a sprayer, and also the IPARD support in the value of EUR 22,345.

Though, this is not the end. With the IPARD support, Branislav is planning to renew more of his mechanization. He submitted an application for the Sixth Public Call for Measure 1. Considering that he is well placed on the ranking list, Branislav hopes that he will accomplish, step by step, modernization of his farm with IPARD support.
